THE HOME GOLD CURE.
An Ingenious Treatment by Which Drunkards are Being Cured Daily in Spite of Themselves.
No Noxious Doses—No Weakening of the Nerves—A Pleasant and Positive Cure for the Liquor Habit.

It is now generally known and understood that Drunkenness is a disease and not weakness. A body filled with poison, and nerves completely shattered by periodical or constant use of intoxicating liquors, requires an ant-dote capable of neutralizing and eradicating this poison, and destroying the craving for intoxicants. Sufferers may now cure themselves at home without publicity or loss of time from business by this wonderful "HOME GOLD CURE" which has been perfected after many years of close study and treatment of inebriates. The faithful use according to directions of this wonderful discovery is positively guaranteed to cure the most obstinate case, no matter how hard a drinker. Our records show the marvelous transformation of thousands of Drunkards into sober, industrious and upright men.

WIVES CURE YOUR HUSBANDS!! CHILDREN CURE YOUR FATHERS!! This remedy is in no senes a nostrum but is a specific for this disease only, and is so skillfully devised and prepared that it is thoroughly soluble and pleasant to the taste, so that it can be given in a cup of tea or coffee without the knowledge of the person taking it. Thousands of Drunkards have cured themselves with this priceless remedy, and as many more have been cured and made temperate men by having the "CURE" administered by loving friends and relatives without their knowledge in coffee or tea, and believe today that they discontinued drinking of their own free will. DO NOT WAIT. Do not be deluded by apparent and misleading "improvement." Drive out the disease at once and for all time. "The HOME GOLD CURE" is sold at the extremely low price of One Dollar, thus placing within reach of everybody a treatment more effectual than others costing $25 to $50. Full directions accompany each package. Special advice by skilled physicians when requested without extra charge. Sent prepaid to any part of the world on receipt of One Dollar. Address Dept. E 428, EDWIN B. GILES & COMPANY, 2330 and 2332 Marstreet, Philadelphia.
All correspondence strictly confidential.

FROM RAIN IN THE WOODS.

When on the leaves the rain insists,
And every gust brings showers down;
When all the woodland smokes with mists,
I take the old road out of town
Into the hills through which it twists.

I find the vale where catnip grows,
Where boneset blooms, with wetness bowed—
The vale through which the red creek flows
Turgid with hill washed clay and loud
As some strange horn a wildman blows.

Like knots upon the gray barked trees
The lichen colored moths are pressed,
And, wedged in hollow blooms, the bees
Seem clotted pollen; in its nest
The hornet creeps and lies at ease.

The butterfly and forest bird
Are huddled on the same gnarled bough
From which, like some rain yowled word
That dampness hoarsely utters now,
The tree toad's voice is vaguely heard.

I crouch and listen, and again
The woods are filled for me with forms;
Weird, clfin shapes in train on train
Arise, and now I feel the arms
Around me of the wraiths of rain.

O wraiths of rain! O trailing mist!
Still fold me, hold me and pursue!
Still let my lips by yours be kissed!
Still draw me with your hands of dew
Unto the tryst, the dripping tryst!
—Madison Cawein in Atlantic.

WHAT MRS. JOHNNIE DID

"Whatever you do, don't take the 12:10," Tom had said when at breakfast Mrs. Johnnie declared her intention of running up to town. "It's slow and awfully dusty and there's generally a rowdy crowd aboard. Wait for the 2:05 express."

But no sooner had Tom taken his departure than Mrs. Johnnie decided to do nothing of the sort. She was a bustling little body, forever on the go, and when once an idea crept into that clever little head of hers she was inclined to carry it through to a finish in her own particular way.

Consequently Mrs. Johnnie did take the 12:10 local, and within five minutes' time she was wishing devoutly that she had followed Tom's advice, for it was hot and dusty, and they were crawling along at a snail's pace, and there were some rough looking customers on board, and—well, oh, dear! After all, Tom did know what he was talking about occasionally.

At the far end of the car a young woman was sitting. She looked so young that one might almost have called her a child in spite of the fact that her pretty brown hair was twisted up on the top of her head in a vain imitation of the latest fashion and the (to Mrs. Johnnie) most atrocious fact that her cheeks were covered with rouge.

Mrs. Johnnie gathered her belongings together and set out to take possession of the seat just in front of the young girl, and then, half turning, she scrutinized the young woman at her leisure. She could do so without rudeness, for the girl was gazing out of the window, and her thoughts seemed to be far away. "It's a sweet little face," thought Mrs. Johnnie, "and I don't care if it is painted it's innocent and trustful. Her dress fits her abominably, but she has a glorious pair of eyes. She's a positive anomaly. I'm going to introduce myself."

The girl turned her head just at that moment, and as their eyes met both of them smiled, and each perceived for the first time that the other wore the little silver Maltese cross of the King's Daughters. They needed no introduction after that. Mrs. Johnnie moved into the seat with her, and they were soon the best of friends. It did not take Mrs. Johnnie very long to gain the particulars of her story. She had never been to the city before, she said; indeed, except for some little excursion now and then, she had never left her home, which was in a little village on the coast of Long Island. She was so glad to have some one to talk to, for of course she was feeling a bit lonely. Then she told Mrs. Johnnie that her name was Daisy—Daisy Hope—and that she was an orphan with just one sister. Her name was Sophie, and she was married now. They had always been the very best of friends—she and Sophie—until Dan Hackett came along. Nowadays, she added with a sigh, Sophie had eyes for no one but Dan.

"But I shan't mind it so much now," she added, suddenly brightening up again, "now that I'm going to be married too."

"Married!" exclaimed Mrs. Johnnie in astonishment. "You don't mean to tell me so! When is it coming off, and what's his name?"

"Yes, we're going to be married right away—Jack and me. This isn't very much of a trousseau, is it?" she added, with an expressive gesture toward her old fashioned carpetbag and two paper parcels. "But Jack said that wouldn't matter. He could fix me up when I came to town. He told me in his letter not to bring anything along; my country dresses would never do for New York, he said. So I've left them all at home there, hanging up in my closet—all except my new pink one I got at Easter. It's so pretty I couldn't bear to leave that behind. I guess it will do for the mornings, now and then.

"But wasn't it awfully good of Jack, though? He sent me this dress to wear on the way up and this diamond," pointing to a huge brooch that sparkled at her throat, but which Mrs. Johnnie's eyes pronounced to be very bad paste. "And there was a box of complexion salve he sent me too. I've put some of it on just to please him, but I can't say that I like it very much. It itches so and feels horrid. Do all ladies paint in New York?"

At another time Mrs. Johnnie would have burst out laughing, but just at present matters were taking too serious a turn. Mrs. Johnnie was beginning to wonder very much.

"But when are you to be married, my dear?" she asked hastily. "You have not answered my question yet. And what does Sophie say? For, of course, you've told her all about it."

The girl hung her head, and Mrs. Johnnie could see her blushes even in spite of the rouge.

"You see, it's this way: Jack hates a fuss and all that. He said for us to get married first and then let Sophie know. That was the hardest thing I had to do—leaving her without a word of goodby. But Jack knows best, I suppose. Only I wish"—

"Excuse me, Daisy, you mustn't think me impertinent for asking all these questions, my dear. Is Jack going to meet you at the station?"

"Well, no, not exactly. He's so busy at this time of day, you know. That's one reason why he sent the dress and things. He said in his letter that he had shown them to a lady friend of his. She's to meet me at the ferry and take charge of me till he comes."

"Oh! And how long did you say you have known a—a—Jack?"

The girl hung her head again. "I saw him first about six weeks ago. He came down on one of the yachts. He came down twice on Sunday after that, and he's written ever so often."

Mrs. Johnnie laid her hand tenderly upon the young girl's arm. "And do you really think, my dear Daisy, that you know him well enough to marry him? Wouldn't it be wiser to wait a bit and take your sister into your confidence? Why not ask Jack to wait a year for you and then see how matters stand? He'll wait for you gladly enough if he's really in earnest."

"Why should I keep him waiting?" she answered. "He loves me. Isn't that enough? I love and trust him entirely, and he does the same by me? Isn't that enough?"

Mrs. Johnnie did not answer for a moment. Her lips were pressed tightly together, for, to tell the truth, Mrs. Johnnie was making up her mind to adopt a desperate measure. This car half full of men was certainly no place for a scene, and Mrs. Johnnie began to realize that if she proceeded to do her duty by this little girl a scene was bound to come. The train was just slowing up for a moment at a little wayside station.

"Well, my dear, I hope sincerely that you will find it is enough," she said. Then, springing up suddenly, she grasped the carpetbag and her own belongings.

"Hurry up, my child!" she exclaimed, giving the girl a little push. "Here's where we change cars, you know. Come along!"

"But I thought this train"—

"Now, my dear, that's just what you mustn't do. Don't think, but follow my instructions."

Before the girl had realized what she was doing Mrs. Johnnie had bundled her out on to the station platform. The train moved slowly out. Mrs. Johnnie watched it disappear with a sigh of relief, and then she turned to the bewildered girl and spoke to her very gently:

"Let us walk over to the little hotel, Daisy. We shall have to wait there half an hour. Perhaps we can secure a room there, for I want to have a little talk with you."

In speaking of it afterward Mrs. Johnnie always declared that to her the walk from the station to the hotel was by far the saddest part of all that day's ordeal. It was then that the magnitude of the work she had to do dawned upon her for the first time. Before they two should be standing on that platform again Jack, the young girl's idol, must be shattered and thrown from its pedestal. To Mrs. Johnnie fell the task of displaying him in his true colors, and, though it was a task which she shrank instinctively from in perspective, when the time came Mrs. Johnnie was not found wanting. She never told any one—not even Tom—the particulars of what occurred in that little room, but when the train from New York came rushing along half an hour later the semaphore was hoisted as a signal to stop and the two women stepped silently on board.

Both of them had tear stained faces, but there was no rouge on the young girl's face now. Her hair hung simply down her back, and she wore her pretty pink dress. That night, when Mrs. Johnnie reached her own home, after quite a long combat with sister Sophie, Tom was told just as many of the particulars as Mrs. Johnnie thought fit.

When she had finished, he was silent for a moment or two, while he exhausted his stock of anathemas upon Jack. Then, turning his attention to the woman in the case, he exclaimed, "Well, of all the little fools"—

But Mrs. Johnnie interrupted him suddenly.

"Don't call her that, dear," she added as she kissed him. "Just thank God that I took the 12:10."

White Lies.

One would hardly dare to ask a friend to dine in so many words, says a writer in The Spectator, if it were not permissible for him to make the false reply that he was sorry he was engaged and could not come.

Ordinary social intercourse, instead of becoming more direct, would have to be carried on by an elaborate system of hints; otherwise society would become, metaphorically speaking, a bear garden in which sensitive persons would be battered to death. It would be impossible to get used to being told "I do not like you, and your friend bore me," or "I could come quite easily, but I do not care to identify myself with the very second rate people among whom you live."

Neither could we improve matters by reversing the ordinary procedure and allowing the guests to invite themselves.

The rebuff of being refused hospitality would be almost unbearable.

One Way to Boil a Ham.

The following is the recipe of the famous John Chamberlin of Washington for boiling a ham:

"To boil a ham a la Chamberlin, the night before put the ham in a tub of cold water, fleshy part downward, skin part up. Next morning put the ham in a large kettle or pot of cold water to boil. Let the water get hot gradually and continue to cook the ham in a slow boil, scarcely more than a simmer. At the end of five hours take the ham out, throw the water out of the pot and fill it with fresh cold water. Put the ham back immediately and let it simmer or boil slowly five hours more. Then add, according to the size of your purse, a gallon of vinegar or a gallon of claret or burgundy or champagne; then simmer or boil for three hours more. Then take the ham off, skin it and put in a cool place. Next morning trim it and eat when you are ready.

"To prevent the ham from tearing or the water suddenly boiling too fast it is always safe to sew a piece of cotton cloth tightly around the ham so as to fit as close as a glove. This will keep the meat firm and guard against the neglect of the cook in letting the water boil too fast."—New York Herald.

A Clever Woman's Answer.

"Do you not consider your husband the most graceless sinner in existence?"

This question was asked the wife of a gay Lothario by a rival for his affections while playing a game called "candor."

The stillness became intense and every pair of eyes grew rounder as those present looked from one woman to the other. It was the husband's voice that broke the silence.

"Your question is out of order, Beatrice," he said quietly. "It is a rule laid down in courts of law that a woman is not required to testify against her husband."

In the confusion that followed as the game broke up the man sought his wife's side. "What should you have replied to the query of the fair Beatrice if I had not come to your rescue so neatly?" he demanded.

"I should have said you were a sinner, yes, but a graceful rather than a graceless one."—Lippincott's.

Slow but Inexorable Justice.

In October, 1900, Pietro Giaconi and Marie Bonelli were tried at Rome on a charge of sextuple murder by poisoning committed 31 years before. In England Eugene Aram was hanged for the murder of Clarke 14 years after the offense. A man named Horne was executed for the murder of his child in the eighteenth century no less than 35 years after the offense. There is also the well known case of Governor Wall, who was executed in 1802 for a murder committed in 1782. Sherward was hanged at Norwich for the murder of his wife after a lapse of 20 years.

But Sir Fitzjames Stephens recalls what is the most remarkable case of all. He prosecuted as counsel for the crown in 1863 a man who was charged with stealing a leaf from a parish register 60 years before—that is, in 1803. In this case the prisoner was acquitted.

The Strength of a Shark.

Given special advantages, such as that of holding the end of a stout rope at the other extremity of which is a hook fixed in a shark's mouth, man may, with the assistance of a number of his fellows, have the best of the shark. But alone and in the water the advantage is wholly and absolutely the other way, and the strongest swimmer and the bravest heart fail when the tyrant of the sea seeks to make his acquaintance.

The shark is a creature gifted with great strength, a savage temper, dogged perseverance and exceptional power of jaw. The lion and tiger may mangle, the crocodile may lacerate, the bulldog may hold fast—the shark alone of living creatures possesses the power of nipping out a human limb at a clean bite.

EYES SPEAK
Volumes, at times, of woman's happiness or misery. The dull, sunken eye, with its dark circles almost surely speaks of womanly ill-health, and its attendant suffering. With the dull eye goes usually the sallow, sunken cheek, the drawn mouth, the shrunken form—the whole glory of woman's beauty marred by the effects of disease.
Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures the diseases which undermine the health and mar the beauty of women. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness.
Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free, and so obtain the advice of a specialist upon their disease. All correspondence is strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.
"With pleasure I send a few lines to let you know that I feel much better than for eight years before taking your medicine," writes Mrs. Pierce Geise, of 822 West Phila. Street, York, Pa. "Will recommend Dr. Pierce's medicine to every person who may inquire as to what it has done for me. I was troubled with female weakness, and began to think I would never be well. If I had continued the treatment prescribed by my doctor I don't know what would have become of me. When your treatment was commenced my weight was 108 pounds, at present it is 130. Have healthy color and my friends say I look well. My best thanks to you and my best wishes, too, for what you have done for me."
"Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong, sick women well. Accept no substitute for the medicine which works wonders for weak women.
Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cleanse the clogged system from accumulated impurities.

There is nothing like Asthmalene. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails.
The Rev. C. F. WELLS of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthmalene received in good condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and Asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, Asthma, and thought you had overspoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a triat. To my astonishment the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full-size bottle."
Rev. Dr. Morris Wechler,
Rabbi of the Cong. Bnai Israel.
NEW YORK, Jan. 3, 1901.
DRS. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.,
Gentlemen: Your Asthmalene is an excellent remedy for Asthma and Hay Fever, and its compositton alleviates all troubles which combine with Asthma. Its success iswonderful and astonishing.
After having it carefully analyzed, we can state that Asthmalene contains no opium, morphine, chloroform or ether. Very truly yours,
REV. DR. MORRIS WECHSLER.
AVON SPRINGS, N. Y., Feb. 1, 1901.
DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.
Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic Asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows on 130th street, New York, I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After taking one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease.
Yours respectfully, O. D. PHELPS, M. D.
DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO. February 5, 1901.
Gentlemen: I was troubled with Asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies, but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full-size bottle, and I am ever grateful. I have a family of four children, and for six years was unable to work. I am now in the best of health and am doing business every day. This testimony you can make use of as you see fit.

"A NOBLE PURPOSE TO A NOBLE END."

Forty-five ladies met together last Saturday afternoon in Union Hall and joined the Improvement Club. A Constitution and By-Laws were adopted and "The Sonoma Valley Woman's Club" was approved as the name of the new organization.

The club has for its object the improvement of all sanitary conditions, public parks, by-ways, etc. Also, the furthering of literary and social matters throughout the town and valley.

Such an organization in our midst will do much to add to the well-being and prosperity of our people. The club has at heart the real interest of the community and its members are going to work hand in hand with all progress-loving citizens.

Sonoma, too long dubbed a silurian stronghold, is steadily rising above its petty reputation and will soon take its place among the most thrifty and beautiful towns of the State. The grass will no longer grow in the streets, old landmarks will not sink into the dust, open sewers will not course through the heart of the town and a rank growth of weeds in our public plaza will yield to the velvty green of well-kept lawns.

When such improvements are wrought people with means will be attracted here. A delightful climate, a well-kept town, a beautiful valley and our churches and educational facilities will be sufficient endorsement for the community. Home-seekers from the East will not hesitate to cast their fortunes among us. They will have found the real land of sunshine, fruit and flowers. The wilderness will have disappeared.

With such possibilities in view the ladies are working. The membership of the new club is now as large as that of Petaluma and larger than that of Healdsburg.

Woman, always the lover of beauty and order—always the author of happy ideas—is again to the fore. The work she is doing in the Woman's Club is not beyond her ken. She is but seeking to beautify and elevate her surroundings that she may stand at the portals of her door and say, "a noble purpose to a noble end."

ALTHOUGH our esteemed contemporaries, the Chronicle and Call of San Francisco, have bolted the Republican municipal ticket and are aiding the Democratic nominee for Mayor, we can see no good reason why voters, regardless of politics, should not cost their ballots for Asa R. Wells. The personal fight that our millionaire metropolitan contemporaries are making against the Republican nominee for Mayor ought not to influence the intelligent voter. It is true the Chronicle and Call were not treated fairly by the late Republican municipal convention that nominated Mr. Wells, but the party as a whole should not be made to suffer defeat on account of the short-sighted policy of a few of its leaders who controlled that convention and antagonized the only two Republican morning newspapers of the metropolis.

Asa R. Wells is too good a man to be sacrificed in a squabble of this sort, particularly when it is taken into consideration that Joe Tobin, his Democratic opponent, is in no sense a representative man. Born and reared amid wealth and luxury, one of the exclusive Four Hundred, an adept at golf, polo and the cotillion, he is all that could be desired as a gentleman of leisure and a male butterfly of fashion.

But the Mayor of San Francisco must possess other qualifications. He should be from the people and of the people and capable of representing fairly all classes of society in cosmopolitan San Francisco. Mr. Tobin's birth and breeding precludes this. On the other hand, Mr. Wells is a representative man in the very broadest sense and is in every way qualified to assume the duties and responsibilities of San Francisco's chief executive. Mr. Tobin is not.

THE OBSERVER.

LOVE OF LIFE.

Love of life is an instinct of the human race. We cling to life as the drowning man does to a straw. The Christian, in spite of his faith—in spite of his belief in an ideal hereafter—is in no hurry to leave his present abode for happier realms. He has his reasons of course—God has willed it so; besides he hesitates to leave his loved one's behind.

The poor man, who is buffeted about by a no kindly Fate, even he does not wish to shuffle off prematurely. Hope cheers him on his way and he prefers to travel the well known road of life rather than to penetrate into the great beyond.

The sick and crippled, they too, in a majority of cases, love life in spite of their misfortune. Some of them whose hearts have been caloused, whose minds are filled with pessimistic thought, love life not so much as they fear death. They know only an unkind, unjust God whose ire they fear. They cling to day because they are apprehensive of night. They hate to die and so "live and let live."

The ætheist believes we are a long time dead, and so he thinks this earth good enough to linger on. If he did not love life he would die by his own hand, for he has no scruples—no commandments govern him.

There is yet another class who shudder at the thought of death and still would die. These are the cowards—philosophic cowards perhaps, but weaklings after all, who say with Hamlet:

"Who would fardels bear,
To sweat and grunt under a weary life
But that dread of something after death;
The undiscovered country, from whose bourne
No traveller returns, puzzles the will,
And makes us rather bear the ills we have
Than fly to others that we know not of?
Thus conscience does make cowards of us all."

Taking it all in all humanity by some mode of reasoning comes to the conclusion that life is better than death.

Then, too, the law of self-preservation is inherent. Throw an infant into the sea and watch him struggle. Thrust his limb into the fire and watch him draw back. This is not reason which prompts this action on the part of the child. It is natural impulse.

Natural impulse and the varied reasonings of human kind make love of life paramount in every heart.

As a result we have comparatively few suicides, less misery and more contentment in this world of ours. Show me the man who has

"Left the warm precinct of this cheerful day,
Nor cast one longing, lingering look behind."

It is an old saying that superstition is born of ignorance. The world advances but superstition persists. How is it that this tradition of the dark ages remains with us to this day? It remains because it is a tradition. Many superstitions are merely foolish customs which have been handed down from one generation to the other. If we would stamp out superstition we must do nothing to perpetuate its name. Do not let your children know that the number 13 has any particuiar significance for as sure as you do you are doing your share toward making the name of superstition immortal. Do not tell the little ones of hobgoblins and bogie men who will carry them away, for this makes their pliable minds susceptible to uncanny thought. Do not tell them to throw a little salt over their shoulder and burn a little when they turn over the salt celler if you do not want them to repeat the process to their playmates and finally to their children and grandchildren. Remember what a learned man has well advised: "The education of a child should begin a hundred years before its birth."

The superstitions that abide with us to-day are not the superstitions of the dark ages but they are of kin. Science has done much to dispel the great illusions. It is the petty that remain. Such superstitions as that about the number 13 persist because if thirteen guests happen to dine together and one of them dies, we are sure to recall the incident, and the bony finger of superstition is quick to point out the fact that there was a death as a result. If ten people gathered around the feast and two of them died we would probobly never notice it. Even five out of twenty we would not perhaps take cognizance of, but a single death, though a mere coincidence, is taken as proof positive of the superstition of 13.

There is in reality nothing evil about our modern superstitions nor are they obstacles in the way of progress. They are simply foolish trifles over which people are apt to brood and worry, and because they are absolutely without utility in this modern age we would do well to ignore them and keep them from harrowing the brain of the rising generation.

A San Francisco fence painter this week made vain endeavors to paint the portrait of Joe Tobin, the Democratic nominee for Mayor. The result was a "spectacular gent" who made such faces at the Examiner that he had to go. Tobin's phiz was a fizzle so it fizzled out.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod Liver Oil is the means of life, and enjoyment of life to thousands: men women and children.

When appetite fails, it restores it. When food is a burden, it lifts the burden.

When you lose flesh, it brings the plumpness of health.

When work is hard and duty is heavy, it makes life bright.

It is the thin edge of the wedge; the thick end is food. But what is the use of food, when you hate it, and can't digest it?

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil is the food that makes you forget your stomach.

If you have not tried it, send for free sample, its agreeable taste will surprise you.

Grand Entertainment and Social.

The ladies of St. Francis' Church have completed a very attractive programme for their entertainment and social, which will be held in Union Hall on Saturday evening, October 26th. The talent will include such stars as E. Lambert, the popular coon shouter and comic singer; Walter Hay, the sweet tenor singer, and his brother Charley, who possesses a rich baritone voice. All have delighted San Francisco audiences. Prof. W. O. Hocker of the Grammar School will give comic recitations and other excellent numbers will be rendered by Sonoma favorites. The program will wind up with a farce entitled "A Game of Chance," which will be presented by six favorite amateurs from Petaluma. Dancing will follow the evening's entertainment. Refreshments will be served. Admission to the hall 50 cents.

STOPS PAIN

Athens, Tenn., Jan. 27, 1901. Ever since the first appearance of my menses they were very irregular and I suffered with great pain in my hips, back, stomach and legs, with terrible bearing down pains in the abdomen. During the past month I have been taking Wine of Cardui and Thedford's Black-Draught, and I passed the monthly period without pain for the first time in years. NANNIE DAVIS.

What is life worth to a woman suffering like Nannie Davis suffered? Yet there are women in thousands of homes to-day who are bearing those terrible menstrual pains in silence. If you are one of these we want to say that this same will bring you permanent relief. Console yourself with the knowledge that 1,000,000 women have been completely cured by Wine of Cardui. These women suffered from leucorrhoea, irregular menses, headache, backache, and bearing down pains. Wine of Cardui will stop all these aches and pains for you. Purchase a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui to-day and take it in the privacy of your home.

ELY'S CREAM BALM is a positive cure Apply into the nostrils. It is quickly absorbed. 50 cents at Druggists or by mail; samples 10c. by mail. ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren St., New York City.

Drying preparations simply develop dry catarrh; they dry up the secretions, which adhere to the membrane and decompose, causing a far more serious trouble than the ordinary form of catarrh. Avoid all drying inhalants, fumes, smokes and snuffs and use that which cleanses, soothes and heals. Ely's Cream Balm is such a remedy and will cure catarrh or cold in the head easily and pleasantly. A trial size will be mailed for 10 cents. All druggists sell the 50c. size. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., N.Y.

The Balm cures without pain, does not irritate or cause sneezing. It spreads itself over an irritated and angry surface, relieving immediately the painful inflammation.

With Ely's Cream Balm you are armed against Nasal Catarrh and Hay Fever.

An Ancient Foe

To health and happiness is Scrofula—as ugly as ever since time immemorial.

It causes bunches in the neck, disfigures the skin, inflames the mucous membrane, wastes the muscles, weakens the bones, reduces the power of resistance to disease and the capacity for recovery, and develops into consumption.

"A bunch appeared on the left side of my neck. It caused great pain, was lanced, and became a running sore. I went into a general decline. I was persuaded to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and when I had taken six bottles my neck was healed, and I have never had any trouble of the kind since." MRS. K. T. SNYDER, Troy, Ohio.

Hood's Sarsaparilla and Pills will rid you of it, radically and permanently, as they have rid thousands.

Weekly Crop Bulletin.

United States Department of Agriculture. Climate and Crop Bulletin of the Weather Bureau, California Section, Coast and Bay Division, for the week ending Monday, October 21, 1901:

Heavy fogs have prevailed along the coast, somewhat retarding bean harvest, but in other respects conditions have been favorable for all late crops. Grape picking continues in Napa and Sonoma counties. Fruit drying is progressing. Apples are yielding a heavy crop. Citris fruits are doing well. Grain thrashing and hay baling are not yet completed in the southern coast counties, and every effort is being made to secure these crops before the rainy season. Corn harvest has commenced in some places; the yield is rather light. New grass needs rain. Cattle are in good condition. Plowing and seeding are progressing in some sections.

Local Brevities

There was a slight sprinkle of rain Thursday.

There will be a Sunday school in the San Luis school house to-morrow at 10 A. M.

The stores in this place will hereafter close at 8 o'clock sharp every evening, Saturdays excepted.

Winemaking is nearly over in this valley and owing to the favorable condition of the weather the vintage will be an exceptionally fine one.

Help Wanted—Salesmen to sell $20 typewriter. Will do equally as good work as any $100 machine. Good pay to hustlers. 710 New York Life Bld'g, Chicago. *

On Tuesday last the thermometer registered over 100 degrees in the shade in several places in this valley. The weather the past week has been by far the warmest ever experienced here in October.

Claude Burlingame has returned from Stockton where he made some fancy "killings" and otherwise did things to the ponies during the recent racing event in that city.

Fred. Batto of Vineyard made a business trip to San Francisco the fore part of the week. He reports the dried fruit market in good shape. His dryer is still engaged on apples and other late fruits.

Do you want a brand new Wheeler & Wilson $75 Sewing Machine that has never been used. If so apply at this office. This machine will be warranted and sold cheap on the installment plan. *

For Sale—A $50 life scholarship in Ayers' Business College, San Francisco, will be sold at a sacrifice. This is the best Business College on the Pacific Coast. Apply at this office.

The party who has the copy of the "Holy City," left in the lecture room of the Congregational Church on the evening of the reception to the Rev. Mr. Kirkland will kindly return the same to this office.

For Sale—Almost new house and two-acre lot, barn, etc., located in Embarcadero, for sale for $1100. This is a fine piece of property for the headquarters of a sporting club or a public resort. For further particulars inquire of H. H. Granice, Sonoma.

Henry L. Shattuck of Shellsburg Iowa, was cured of a stomach trouble with which he had been afflicted for years, by four boxes of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. He had previously tried many other remedies and a number of physicians without relief. For sale by F. Duhring. *

Edward Steiger of Agua Caliente returned from the city on Monday evening's train. He reports having picked over seventy tons of grapes from his young resistant vineyards this season. When the vines come into full bearing, which will be two years hence, Mr. Steiger's vineyards will be the finest in the valley.

SHOT FOUR CHICKENS.

Chas. Collier Sent to Jail for Sixty Days.

Chas. Collier, better known as "Jack Snipe," who is respectably connected and who has lived in this place and vicinity for eight or ten years, was sentenced to serve sixty days in the County Jail by Judge Small on Wednesday last.

He was accused of shooting four chickens, the property of Mrs. John Hugett. On Tuesday afternoon the Hugetts, who are living on the Joost place in the western suburbs of town, heard the report of a shot gun in a field in the rear of their chicken house. This was followed by the squawking of poultry, and Mrs. Hugett rushed to the rescue of her chickens and discovered Collier with a smoking shotgun in his hands and a short distance from him lay four dead and crippled pullets, the victims of a well aimed pot shot.

Mrs. Hugett thereupon hastened into town and swore out a warrant for Collier's arrest. Armed with the warrant Deputy Sheriff Ryan hunted the accused up, placed him under arrest and locked him up.

Wednesday afternoon Collier was taken before Judge Small who found him guilty and sentenced him to serve sixty days in the County Jail.

Collier made no defense whatever. Neither did he plead guilty. Seeing the case was dead against him he simply sat in the Justice's Court and "sawed wood," taking his medicine like a philosopher. The young man has worked at odd jobs in this place for a number of years.

The prisoner was taken to Santa Rosa by Deputy Sheriff Ryan on Wednesday afternoon's train and placed in the Hote de Grace, where chicken is never, no hardly ever, placed on the menu card.

SAD DEATH.

Mrs. Henry Bill Expires at Bella Vista.

Mrs. Elizabeth Bill, wife of Henry Bill, lessee of the Bella Vista ranch on the Napa road, died last Sunday afternoon at four o'clack after an illness of several months. The deceased leaves four children of tender age and a devoted husband to mourn here untimely taking off. Mrs. Bill had many friends in Napa county, where she formerly resided, and was also well and favorably known in this valley as a devoted mother and kind neighbor. She was a native of Germany and aged 29 years, 9 months and 7 days. The deceased was a sister-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Bill of this place.

The funeral took place from her late residence Tuesday noon, the remains being interred in Mountain Cemetery. The funeral was largely attended by relatives and friends, many of the latter coming from Napa county.

Grape Harvest Ball.

The wine-makers and grape-growers of Glen Ellen and vicinity will give a grand grape harvest ball at Mervyn Hall on Saturday evening, November 2d. Profs. P. W. D'Arcy and H. Schieck will furnish the music and R. G. Sutherland and J. M. Cowan will have charge of the floor.

AUTUMN WEDDINGS.

Fair Brides and Lucky Grooms Plight their Troths—Handsome Wedding Gifts.

The wedding of Miss Dora Burris and Skelton Glaister was solemnized last Sunday at the home of the bride's parents by the Rev. Mr. Case, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church. The affair was a quiet one, owing to the illness of Mr. Burris, and only the relatives were present.

The bride was becomingly gowned in a blue cloth traveling suit and wore a handsome hat to match. Her suit was stitched with numberless bands of tucked taffeta and trimmed in rich Arabian lace. With it she wore one of the new three quarter length mob'le coats—a handsome tan trimmed in panne velvet of the same shade.

Altogether this young bride's trousseau is very beautiful. Dainty silk waists in all the evening shades, a fetching tailor gown, taffeta skirts, fluffy neckwear and stunning hats—one an exquisite creation of the milliners' art in gray ostrich plumes.

Immediately after the ceremony the young couple and bridal party were driven to the afternoon train of the California Northwestern where they were met by a company of their young friends who showered congratulations, rice and roses upon them. They took the 3:40 train to San Francisco and from there went to the Hotel del Monte, Monterey, where they spent their honeymoon.

Many costly wedding presents were received, among them we noticed a cut glass water bottle, silver tea and coffee pot, silver butter dish, silver manicure set, silver tablespoons, a case of silver, cut glass berry dish, blue silk sofa pillow covered with hand-made lace, onyx stand and statue of Mercury, three handsome pictures and two lamps. The gift of the groom was a pearl sunburst.

Mr. and Mrs. Glaister are numbered among Sonoma's most popular young people. Mrs. Glaister is the daughter of David Burris, the banker, and is a very pretty brunett. She was educated in a fashionable young ladies' school of San Francisco and is a girl of charming manner and lovely disposition. Mr. Glaister is the grandson of T. S. Glaister, one of Sonoma Valley's old and respected citizens, and he is a young man of good business capacity and integrity.

The young couple will reside on Broadway in the pretty Glaister home, which is being handsomely furnished for them.

One of the prettiest home weddings on the calendar was that of Miss Lavinnia Lulie Morris and Dr. George D. Rich, which was solemnized on Thursday at high noon.

The quaint and rustic home of the bride near Agua Caliente was beautifully decorated with the season's loveliest foliage, and here in the presence of many relatives and two or three intimate friends the young couple were united.

A large bay window was banked with deep-hued autumn leaves, ferns and flowers and a gorgeous wedding bell was suspended from above. Here, too, a little chancel and railing were erected, made very beautiful by the addition of handsome white satin ribbons.

Promptly at 12 o'clock, to the strains of Mendelsohn's wedding march, the bridal party entered the room and approached the chancel, the way to which was unbarred by little Helen Morris, who untied the ribbons. The dainty little bride leaned on the arm of her father, J. B. Morris. She wore a wonderfully pretty gown of white organdy over white taffeta silk made with a demi-train. It was trimmed elaborately in ribbon and lace alternately inserted. The bodice was round with deep yoke effect and the skirt was a profusion of the tiniest ruffles, forming a graduated flounce. A long veil of white tulle held by a pretty bride rosebud fell from her fair blonde head and completely enshrouded her graceful figure. Her bouquet was bride's roses.

Miss Katherine Morris, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. She was attractively gowned in white over a pink silk slip and carried pink roses. Milton McGimsey was best man.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. D. Milliken of San Jose, who is a warm friend of the bride and groom.

After the vows had been said and amid heartfelt congratulations there was a bounteous feast. Seven tables, scattered with fragrant violets and maiden-hair fern, had been prepared for the guests. With the bride and groom sat J. B. Morris, Rev. Mr. Milliken, Milton McGimsey and Miss Kate Morris. At the second table were Misses Doris Clewe and Julie Granice and Messrs J. B. Morris Jr. and Will Clewe.

At three o'clock the beautiful bridal robe was exchanged for a modish traveling suit of blue, and Dr. Rich and his fair young bride were driven to the Southern Pacific train. Amid showers of rice and good cheer they bade their friends farewell, and as the train moved out the bride's bouquet came flying through the air. Miss Doris Clewe was the lucky claimant.

Dr. and Mrs. Rich will spend their honeymoon in Los Angeles, after which they will occupy the artistic home which awaits them on Napa street.

Dr. Rich is a young physician with a fine practice and a brilliant future. He is rising steadily in his profession. Though not yet thirty years old he is one of the best contributors to the medical journals of his school and is a lecturer in one of the large colleges of San Francisco.

His bride is a lovely girl in every way. She has beauty of face and form and character and is beloved by all who know her—"a flower of youth and beauty's pride."

The presents received were many and all were very handsome. Among them were two silver services, many gold lined spoons, a cut glass water bottle, china chocolate set, chafing dish, embroidered sofa pillow, burnt leather picture of the Mission El Carmel, bohemian glass set, silver coffee pot, real lace handkerchief, salad forks, fish forks and two handsomely framed pictures.

Sunday School Convention.

A District Sunday School Convention will be held in this place Monday, October 28th, at the Congregational Church. The sessions will be from 2 to 4 P. M. and 7:30 to 9 P. M. Prominent workers from all parts of the field will address the convention. Among them will be Earl J. Bingham of San Jose, General Secretary of the California Sunday School Association, and Rev. J. W. Gaston of Santa Rosa. Everybody will be welcome at all of these meetings and we trust all who can will try to attend.

AN EXPLANATION.

If you'll make a diagnosis when you're feeling sad and dreary,
As you would with any everyday disease;
If you'll simply question science as to why you're glum and weary
And everything seems dull and ill at ease,
Perhaps you will discover, after devious calculations,
The cause of all these symptoms which appall,
And you'll smile as you reflect, in spite of various irritations,
That it's nothing but the weather after all,

You'll find a sigh denoting neither sorrow nor contrition;
A tear drop's not indicative of care.
They are products of the meteorological condition,
Of extra moisture that is in the air,
So perhaps it's not in reason fortune's chance to be reviling
Or to vow life's store of happiness is small,
For when the sun comes out again, again we will be smiling;
It's nothing but the weather after all.

SPIRIT SLATE WRITING.

How the Mysterious Sentences Are Prepared In Advance.

Spiritualistic slate writing, if cleverly done, always makes a marked impression on a magician's audience because it utterly baffles their efforts to detect the trick. They see a small cabinet suspended above the stage by means of cords or ribbons. It has an open front and is empty. The magician turns it around so that every part of it may be seen and taps it inside and out with his wand to show that it is hollow.

On a stand near by he has a small easel, a common school slate, a bottle of india ink with a quill pen in it and a few sheets of ordinary white writing paper. All these he passes around among the audience for examination. Then he fixes a sheet of the paper to the slate by means of wafers, places the slate on the easel and the easel in the cabinet, together with the bottle of ink, the latter having the pen still in 't.

Having allowed the audience to see the articles thus arranged in the cabinet, he throws a large silk handkerchief over it. Mysterious sounds are immediately heard, and the cabinet shakes as if some living thing had entered it. When the sounds and the shaking cease, he removes the handkerchief, showing an inscription written in bold black letters on the paper and the pen not in the ink bottle, but lying on the bottom of the cabinet. He then removes the paper from the slate and passes it around for examination, when the writing is immediately recognized as having been done with India ink.

The explanation of the trick is simple. The writing was done in advance by the performer, the fluid used being a solution of sulphuric acid of the purest quality. To make the solution 50 drops of the concentrated acid are added to one ounce of filtered water. Writing done with this solution is invisible until exposed to heat. When so exposed, it comes out perfectly black, looking exactly like dried India ink.

The heat is applied by means of an electric current running over wire with which the slate is wound. The cords by which the cabinet is suspended conceal copper wires, which conduct the current to the slate. Black silk threads suitably attached enable the performer to make the sounds in the cabinet, to cause the cabinet to shake and to jerk the pen out of the ink bottle.

Several sheets of paper are prepared in advance, each with a different inscription, the performer telling one inscription from another by secretly marked pin pricks.—New York Herald.

Keeping at It.

There is a very old but very good story about a boy who was engaged one winter day in putting a ton of coal into a cellar. His only implement was a small fire shovel. Noticing this, a benevolent old gentleman expressed surprise and commiseration.

"My son," said the gentleman, "you surely do not expect to put in all that coal with that little shovel?"

"Oh, yes, I do," replied the boy cheerfully. "All I have to do is to keep at it."

There is a lesson in this story for young and old, and it is exemplified in the lives of the great men of the world. It is a mistake to suppose that the best work of the world is done by people of great strength and many opportunities. "Keeping at it" is the secret of success. —Exchange.

Left Handed Medicine.

An Atchison druggist tells this story and declares that it is true: He had tonsilitis, but did not send for a doctor, as he knew he would be all right as soon as the swelling "broke." But his wife was worried and insisted on sending for a doctor. When the doctor arrived, he looked through his medicine case, and said he had nothing suitable for the patient; that the medicine he had was for the right side, whereas the swelling in the throat was on the left side. Then he hurried away to get his left handed medicine.—Atchison Globe.

Catching a Feminine Fish.

"Do you really think there are mermaids in the sea?"

"Certainly," said the dime museum man.

"Then why hasn't anybody besides you succeeded in catching one?"

"Because nobody else was smart enough to bait a hook with the latest style of Paris hat," was the answer.—Washington Star.

A WORTHY SUCCESSOR.

"Something New Under the Sun."

All Doctors have tried to cure CATARRH by the use of powders, acid, gases, inhalers and drugs in paste form. Their powders dry up the mucuous membranes, causing them to crack open and bleed. The powerful acids used in the inhalers have entirely eaten away the same membranes that their makers have aimed to cure, while pastes and ointments cannot reach the disease. An old and experienced practitioner who has for many years made a close study and specialty of the treatment of CATARRH, has at last perfected a Treatment which when faithfully used, not only relieves at once, but permanently curres CATARRH, by removing the cause, stopping the discharge, and curing all inflammation. It is the only remedy known to science that actually reaches the afflicted parts. This wonderful remedy is known as "SNUFFLES the GUARANTEED CATARRH CURE" and is sold at the extremely low price of One Dollar, each package containing internal and external medicine sufficient for a full month's treatment and everything necessary to its perfect use.

"SNUFFLES" is the only perfect CATARRH CURE ever made and is now recognized as the only safe and positive cure for that annoying and disgusting disease. It cures all inflammation quickly and permanently and is also wonderfully quick to relieve HAY FEVER or COLD in the HEAD.

CATARRH when neglected often leads to CONSUMPTION—"SNUFFLES" will save you if you use it at once. It is no ordinary remedy, but a complete treatment which is positively guaranteed to cure CATARRH in any form or stage if used according to directions which acompany each package. Don't delay but send for it at once, and write full particulars as to your condition, and you will receive special advice from the discoverer of this wonderful remedy regarding your case without cost to you beyond the regular price of "SNUFFLES" the "GUARANTEED CATARRH CURE.

Sent prepaid to any address in the United States or Canada on the receipt of One Dollar. Address Dept. E 428, EDWIN B. GILES & COMPANY, 2330 and 2332 Market street, Philadelphia.

A Typical South African store.

O. R. Larson of Bay Villa, Sundays River, Cape Colony, conducts a store typical of South Africa, at which can be purchased anything from the proverbial "needle to an anchor." This store is situated in a valley nine miles from the nearest railway station and about twenty-five miles from the nearest town Mr. Larson says: "I am favored with the custom of farmers within a radius of thirty miles, to many of whom I have supplied Chamberlain's remedies. All testify to their value in a household where a doctor's advice is almost out of the question. Within one mile of my store the population is perhaps sixty. Of these, within the past six months, no less than fourteen have been absolutely cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. This must surely be a record." For sale by F. Duhring. *

Stricken With Paralysis.

Henderson Grimett of this place was stricken with partial paralysis and completely lost the use of one arm and side. After being treated by an eminent physician for quite a while without relief my wife recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm and after using two bottles of it he is almost entirely cured.—Geo. R. McDonald, Man, Logan county, W. Va. Several other very remarkable cures of partial paralysis have been effected by the use of this liniment. It is most widely known, however, as a cure for rheumatism, sprains and bruises. Sold by F. Duhring. *

Where They Agreed.

At the silver wedding of the Prince and Princess of Wales an English town wished to present an address, but there was a great discussion as to its wording. For some time they could not agree at all. "Conscious as we are of our own unworthiness" was universally condemned, but when some one proposed "Conscious as we are of each other's unworthiness" it was agreed to to a man.

Beavers' Teeth.

Of the cutting power of the beaver's teeth Frank H. Risteen says in Rod and Gun:

"The beaver is really a sort of portable pulp mill, grinding up most any kind of wood that comes his way. I once measured a white birch tree, 22 inches through, cut down by a beaver. A single beaver generally, if not always, amputates the tree, and when it comes down the whole family fall to and have a regular frolic with the bark and branches. A big beaver will bring down a fair sized sapling, say three inches through, in about two minutes and a large tree in about an hour.

"One of the queerest facts about the beaver is the rapidity with which his long, chisel shaped teeth will recover from an injury. I have known beavers to break their teeth in biting a trap, and when I caught them again ten days afterward you couldn't see a sign of the break. The teeth had grown out to their former perfection in that short period."

Curiosities of the Cacao Tree.

The cultivation of cacao, says a writer in The Scientific American, is an inviting agricultural pursuit in Trinidad and parts of Venezuela. The cacao tree cannot withstand strong sunshine, and the young plants have to be shaded by banana or plantain trees and later, when they attain their growth, by tall trees known as "immortelles," or the "mother of the cacao." These make a kind of canopy over the entire plantation. The fruit of the cacao tree is a pod resembling a cucumber and growing on the trunk or large branches, where it "looks as though it were artificially attached." The seeds are like large, thick lima beans imbedded in pulp. These form the cacao beans of commerce. The processes of curing and drying require much attention.

Handy Things to Carry.

Few people carry pocket scissors of the folding sort. Those that do never part with them. Convenient for manicure use, to cut a clipping from a paper at a moment's notice, a string, etc., they answer almost every purpose of the pocketknife and are much more convenient to handle. Give a person accustomed to their use a knife and the pocket scissors, and he will part with the former first.—Hardware.

So They Do, Some of Them.

The teacher had been giving a class of youngsters some ideas of adages and how to make them, and to test her training she put a few questions:

"Birds of a feather—do what?"

"Lay eggs," piped a small boy before anybody else had a chance to speak.

Unappreciative.

"You find spring water a very great advantage in dairying, I presume?"

"Oh, I don't know," said the milkman. "The average person buying milk doesn't know the difference between spring water and any other kind."—Detroit Journal.
